Ike Plans Foreign Aid Spending Slash, Study Of Overlapping Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was reported today to be planning a cut in foreign aid spending.

Senate Republican Leader Taft (Ohio) and House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) said there has been no determination yet on the amount of the cut, but that there definitely will be a reduction from the $7½ billion proposed by the Truman administration for foreign aid in the fiscal year beginning July 1.

Taft and Martin held a news conference immediately after their weekly meeting with Eisenhower.

Taft said Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen is having a study made to find out whether $10 billion in foreign aid carryover funds can be cut.

Stassen sat in with the congressional leaders at their conference with Eisenhower.

Taft and Martin also announced: 1. The President would send to Congress later in the day a special message asking creation of a commission to study federal-state relations on such matters as taxes, grants in aid and social security.

Eisenhower told his news conference last week it would be the job of the proposed commission to eliminate waste and overlapping.

2. The President will sign later this week an executive order to strip civil service protection from several hundred federal government policy-making officials appointed by Democratic administrations.

3. Agreement was reached with Eisenhower to fix July 4 as the target date for adjournment of Congress. Taft said Congress in any event "positively" will adjourn by Aug. 1.

4. The leaders informed the President both the House and the Senate plan to start debate this week on legislation to give the states title to oil-rich submerged coastal lands.

Taft predicted the coastal lands bill to be enacted. He also announced that after the Senate completes debate on the submerged lands measure it will take up a bill to extend the defense production act, scheduled to expire May 1.

When that measure is out of the way, Taft said, the Senate will take up Hawaiian statehood and extension of the reciprocal trade act in that order.

4 Cars Stolen In Wild Spree By Youth, 16

A wild spree of auto-stealing in Circleville Saturday night ended with a 16-year-old Chillicothe youth behind bars.

Within only a few hours Saturday night the youth has confessed to stealing four autos, demolishing one of them in a crash, tearing the transmission from another and abandoning the other two.

Officer Turney Ross and Deputy Carl Radcliff, who rounded up the youth on Sunday, said the lad stated he began by seeing someone hide something in a southeast lot. He told the lawmen he took a look and found a bottle of whisky. He said he drained the bottle, then started out.

FIRST OF the autos nabbed was at Court and High Sts. He drove the auto south on the Kingston Pike, completely demolishing it in a crash near Scippo creek. He suffered only cuts and bruises.

Leaving the accident, the youth next grabbed an auto from a farmhouse just off the Kingston Pike and drove that car into Circleville. He abandoned it on Clinton St. when the transmission was torn out.

The next car, taken from the southeast, was abandoned behind the Sheldahl's mill, apparently when it ran out of gas, and the fourth car, taken from in front of the mill, was abandoned at the end of Logan St. Neither of the last two autos was damaged.

Lawmen said the lad is being held in Chillicothe because of crowded conditions in the county jail here. He will be brought here later for processing in juvenile court.

Royalty Pending For Mary's Rites

LONDON (AP)—The thinning ranks of European royalty headed for London today to pay homage at the funeral of Queen Mary.

The royal delegations were to include King Baudouin of Belgium; Queen Juliana of The Netherlands and her husband, Prince Bernhard; Crown Prince Olav of Norway, and ex-King Umberto of Italy. Greece's Queen Frederika arrived Sunday.

They will journey to Windsor Castle for simple funeral rites Tuesday for the 85-year-old Queen grandmother, whose death Tuesday severed British royalty's last living tie with the Victorian era.

There was no comment from the White House or State Department.

"I DIDN'T WANT any interference by anyone," McCarthy replied

when asked if he had informed the State Department or any other government agency about the negotiations. He said he felt President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles "will be pleased."

Members of McCarthy's subcommittee, Republicans and Democrats alike, said they had not seen the agreement in advance. However, Senators Mundt (R-SD) and McClellan (D-Ark.) said they were aware of staff work leading to it. Senators Potter (R-Mich.) and Jackson (D-Wash.) said that, although the announcement was a surprise, they approved of the agreement.

Stassen was referring to McCarthy's announcement Saturday that the subcommittee staff had negotiated an agreement with Greek owners of 242 ships that they would break off all trade with North Korea and Red China.

McCarthy's move had raised a constitutional question, since it is the President who is charged with the conduct of foreign affairs under the Constitution.

It WAS NOT clear whether McCarthy's subcommittee, in bypassing the executive branch of government to negotiate an agreement with foreigners, had infringed upon presidential prerogative.

The State Department announced today Greece already has put into effect a new order prohibiting Greek-flag ships from trading with the Communists.

The order approved March 23 by the Greek Council of Ministers prohibits all ships registered under Greek law from calling at any port under Communist control, or ports in mainland China and North Korea, a spokesman said.

Lincoln White, State Department press secretary, said the Greek decree "had the effect of law immediately, although it is subject to ratification by the Greek Parliament. Its effect is binding on all ships for the Greek registry."

McCarthy mentioned the Greek government decree then, but he said it had yet to be ratified by the Greek parliament. And he said his action went "far beyond" it.

McCarthy'S subcommittee today called a hearing on Iron Curtain trading, but the inquiry appeared to have been hobbled by McCarthy's announcement of the agreement with the ship owners. Previous plans had been to stress activities of the Greek-owned ships.

Summoned as witnesses were Harold E. Stassen, director of the Mutual Security Administration, and Frank C. Nash, assistant secretary of defense.

McCarthy said Saturday that his agreement, negotiated without consultation with the Eisenhower administration, provided that the Greek ship owners would not "carry cargoes of any type from one Communist port to another in any part of the world."

The Greek government's action as reported here, was understood to apply only to ships flying the Greek flag. Officials said the Greek government could take no action against vessels owned by Greeks but operating under the flags of other countries.

McCarthy said that of the 242 ships involved in his committee's action, 51 fly the Greek flag, 88 the Panamanian, 52 the Liberian, 34 the Canadian and 17 the British.

Since the U. S. Constitution makes the President responsible for the conduct of foreign affairs, McCarthy's move raised a constitutional question. It was not clear whether a senatorial subcommittee, in bypassing the executive branch of government to negotiate an agreement with foreigners, had infringed upon this presidential prerogative.

Lily Paraders In County Net Total Of $245

Officers of Pickaway County Society for Crippled Children announced Monday the 1953 Lily Parade, high point for the annual Easter Seal Campaign, brought donations totaling $245.66.

The total for the county on last Saturday's contributions was more than four times the amount raised by the Lily Parade here last year.

Mrs. Clark Alexander, president of the Society, said:

"This splendid return from the Lily Parade is a real tribute to the people who made it possible, and especially to the Girl Scouts who played their part in the drive so well."

GIRL SCOUT Troop 13 conducted the Lily Parade in Circleville, supervised by Mrs. Glenn Weiler.

Lily Parade contributions boosted the countywide grand total for the Easter Seal Drive to $1,763. The campaign ends Easter Sunday.

Yet to be counted are returns from coin cards distributed in the county schools and late contributions through the mail. A paper is mailed to approximately 4,500 families in the county.

A breakdown on Lily Parade returns was announced as follows:

Circleville, $155.92; Ashville, $65.67; New Holland, $24.07.

No returns were received from Williamsport.

"It was understood the mayor of Williamsport would direct the Lily Parade arrangements in that community," Mrs. Alexander said, "but apparently there was some tieup in the plans. We are trying to determine how this came about."

Ashville residents responded to the Lily Parade call so promptly that Girl Scouts ran out of their supply of paper lilies in that community. It was nearly four hours before an additional supply of the buttonhole tokens could be rushed here from Columbus.

City Court Hearing Scheduled Monday

Hearing on a proposal to establish a municipal court in Circleville will be held Monday at 8 p. m. in rooms of the judiciary committee of the state legislature in Columbus.

Committee rooms are on the third floor of the State House.

Ed Wallace, Pickaway County state representative, warned in a notice last week that the Monday night hearing will be for both the boosters and opponents of the city court plan. Only one hearing will be held, he said.

Aid Offices Moved

Pickaway County offices of the Aid for Aged Division were being moved Monday from 116 N. Scioto St. to 124 S. Scioto St. No appointment has yet been announced to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Edward C. Ebert, manager of the branch.

Premier Chou Offers Change In POW Setup

Chou said the opposing sides should sit down again immediately at the armistice table and try to work out an armistice.

The UN has been cautiously studying the Red acceptance and has given no indication of when it will answer.

The truce talks which started in July, 1951, broke down Oct. 8, 1952, over a UN demand that prisoners be given a choice whether they want to return to their homelands.

The letter was the first Red move since, and it set off a welter of wondering.

Were the Communists sincere? Would they go through with an actual exchange?

Would this be a package deal—is reopening of the truce talks necessary before the Reds will swap sick and wounded POWs?

What's behind it—some hidden gimmick to benefit the Reds?

The matter of sincerity was met with a "wait and see" attitude here, in Washington and other world capitals, stung before by apparently genuine Red offers of peace.

IN NEW DELHI, home of the Indian government that has often tried the role of East-West peacemaker, officials said:

"We must wait and see. The world has been disappointed too often already."

The question of a package deal was not answered by the Reds, but the UN obviously viewed the POWs and truce talks as separate proposals, to be dealt with one at a time.

In Washington, the State Department made it clear it believes the prisoners can be exchanged without formally reopening the truce talks. A spokesman said it is too early to comment on going back to the armistice tent.

The best Army opinion here is that necessary talks for POW exchange would be a "working level" arrangement and not by any means a resumption of the truce talks.

Such talks would be in the hands of lower ranking Red and UN officers to make detailed arrangements. They could be started in minutes, once the go-ahead is given. That OK had to come from Washington.

Normally the State Department makes the basic recommendations after consulting with the United Nations. Then Gen. Mark Clark, UN Far East commander, gets the signal and notifies the Communists.

THE QUESTION of whether the Reds' acceptance is loaded with a hidden gimmick is causing plenty of hard figuring.

That figuring is keyed to the Reds' request for more truce talks. In Washington, a military officer familiar with the Communists commented:

"They never ask for a truce, unless they are in trouble."

However, the Communists are in the midst of their strongest drive in Korea in five months, although Allied officers regard it as a feeler attack.

Probes Opened Into Deaths Of 33 In Florida Rest Home

LARGO, Fla. (U)—Three agencies are investigating the wind-swept fire that destroyed a one-story frame nursing home here Sunday, taking the lives of 32 elderly patients and a valiant nurse who tried to save them.

Investigations were started today by the state fire marshal, the State Hotel Commission and Sheriff Sid Saunders.

Twenty-five patients were saved as neighbors turned out barefooted and in night clothes to back up the rescue efforts of the owners, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Littlefield. Fire companies from Largo and Clearwater also came quickly, but within an hour the sprawling wooden structure was doomed.

The tragedy cost 34 lives in all. Angus D. Smith, Pinellas County welfare director, was killed in an automobile collision while driving three patients to a hospital.

MANY OF THE victims died in their beds, unaware of the danger that suddenly roared at them about 3:30 on a chilly Sabbath morning.

Of those who gained consciousness, some were too panicky to follow directions; some were too feeble-minded and some too old and stubborn.

The Littlefields were sleeping in the home with the patients. Littlefield said he was awakened by the screams of a woman. He tried to fight the flames with fire extinguishers, saw he was losing, and began waking up patients and trying to get them out.

Mrs. Littlefield ran outside, screaming for help, and collapsed with a heart attack. She is in serious condition.

"One man was sound asleep and he clung to the door and fought me while I tried to get him out," said Mrs. Aletha Herring, who lives across the road.

"They were just like children—they didn't want to be removed from their warm beds," said another neighbor, T. R. Hasty, who carried old people out until he was cut off by the flames.

Mrs. Gertrude Warnick, 55, a nurse, brought one woman out, returned to the flame-swept building and did not come out again.

Cause of the fire is a mystery.

In the big crater which blocked both the railroad branch line and a state highway lay the twisted wreckage of uncounted freight cars. The Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad reported 24 cars unaccounted for. The front and tail end of the 107-car freight train were pulled away from the inferno of fire and flying artillery shells.

Military authorities in Chicago said one of the cars contained 105-millimeter artillery shells for use by the Marines but wouldn't say what was in the two others.

State troopers, crane demolition men and Navy shore patrolmen joined a 10-man demolition squad from Camp Atterbury, Ind., in the search for unexploded shells.

Woman Injured In 2-Car Crash

A 57-year-old Garrison, Ky., woman was injured at about 2:15 p. m. Sunday in a two-car crash on Route 23 near Little Walnut.

She is Mrs. Rosina Potter, a passenger in an auto operated by Sherman Potter, 35, of Garrison, Ky. She was treated in Berger hospital for abrasions and bruises of the head.

State Patrolman Bob Greene said the Potter car was travelling south and had slowed because an auto ahead was preparing to make a right turn.

The Potter auto was struck from the rear by an auto operated by Homer Henshaw, 59, of Gallipolis, also travelling south. Henshaw later was fined $10 (costs suspended) before the court of Mayor Ed Aney for failure to stop in an assured clear distance.

Damage Alone In Wreck Set At $1 Million

ERIE, Pa. (U)—New York Central Railroad officials estimated today that property damage alone will total more than $1 million in a triple train crash which killed 21 passengers and injured 150.

After a 10-hour rest, wrecking crews resumed work today to clear the twisted wreckage of two passenger trains and a freight.

Two tracks on the railroad's main east-west line have been opened to traffic. Officials hope to have all tracks restored Tuesday.

Only one of the 21 persons killed in the pileup late Friday night just inside Pennsylvania, four miles east of Conneaut, O., is unidentified. The victim is a woman.

More than 60 of the injured remain in hospitals here and in Ash-tabula and Conneaut. Three are in serious condition.

The New York Central said the wreck resulted from an almost unbelievable set of circumstances. Two passenger trains (westbound No. 5, Buffalo to Chicago, and eastbound No. 12, the Southwestern Limited) were about to pass at the same time two freight trains were passing on the other tracks. This is what happened:

Some stakes broke off a gondola car in an eastbound freight train, allowing a few links of 18-inch pipe to fall off.

One of the pipes struck the north rail of the westbound passenger track, bending the rail. Seconds later, the Buffalo to Chicago express hit the kinked section of rail and some of the cars smashed into a westbound freight. Several cars of the westbound freight train were derailed and No. 5's cars blocked the eastbound passenger track. Just then, the Southwestern Limited smashed into No. 5's cars.

Fischers Host To 3rd Annual Vegetable Confab In Ashville

Third annual vegetable and fruit grower-buyer convention, sponsored by the Will W. Fischer and Son wholesale merchants, was held in the Ashville Knights of Pythias hall with more than 125 growers and buyers present for a banquet dinner, served by the Ashville Pythian Sisters.

The Fischers, fruit and vegetable wholesalers in Columbus and central Ohio, three years ago conceived the idea of getting growers and buyers together to discuss mutual problems and means of producing and packaging fruits and vegetables in such a way as to be more appealing to the housewife. The two previous dinner meetings also were held in Ashville.

Following a chicken dinner, an informal business meeting was held under the direction of William S. Fischer, co-owner of the company. All guests were introduced and each announced his occupation.

Several speakers were presented and responded with short talks. Among them were Al Windish, chief of the division of markets; Eugene Craven, associate profes-

Pint-Size 'Hoppy' Has Troubles: Voice Getting Deeper Every Day

By HAL BOYLE

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP) — A million flaming azaleas have drawn 100,000 visitors here for one of the Southland's greatest festivals of flowers.

Every front yard is aflame with prideful bloom in this mecca of nature lovers. The queen of the annual show is Alexis Smithof Hollyhock, pretty as an azalea with two stems.

But where there's a queen there ought to be a king. And the king of the flower festival here, pardner, is a pint-size Hopalong Cassidy called Bobby Benson.

The grownups come to admire the azaleas and the burning red-bud, but the kids have got a bad case of hero worship for Bobby.

Bobby has achieved the dream of every American boy. He became a famous cowboy before reaching his teens.

Young Mr. Benson at the ripe old age of 12 is radio's top cowboy. His exploits as boss of the B-Bar-B Ranch are broadcast by 550 radio network stations, more than double the number that carry such older horse opera standbys as Gene Autry and Hopalong himself.

Bobby gets about 7,500 fan letters a week. He packs two plastic handled gats. He may be no faster on the draw than Roy Rogers, but has one clearcut edge over every other rival in the professional cowboy field. He is the only one who can sing soprano.

"But my voice is getting deeper every day," said Bobby, who has baritone yearnings.

Many a child star is ruined by adulation. But Bobby has never let his honors go to his head, although naturally he is proud that he is the only junior deputy of the National Safety Council and had a Stratocruiser named after him. Some people live to be 70 and never even have a helicopter named after them.

Bobby started his cowboy career at 10, and before you could say Tom Mix or William S. Hart he was famous. But already he has old age troubles.

"If I tell the truth, I can't travel half fare on the railroads and airplanes anymore, because I am 12," he said, shaking his WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson would be a happy man if he could find some way to cut defense spending about four billion dollars.

That is one figure being mentioned by advocates of less armed forces spending as a means of helping to balance the budget.

But some Pentagon people, in the best position to know, think four billions an impossible cut if this country is to be reasonably safe.

That's one of the reasons Wilson is finding that running the Defense Department is a little different from running General Motors, where he used to be president.

Yet, Wilson is one of the key figures and main hopes in President Eisenhower's ambition to reduce spending and balance the budget.

Former President Truman estimated the cost of all Defense Department expenses for another year after July 1 at about 46 billion dollars. He thought it was the lowest figure for doing the job.

When Wilson was making automobiles he had to turn out a product at the lowest possible cost, match the competition and still make a profit for the company.

Now the competition is the Russians. The only profit is survival. And yet the survival has to be

He said the 5,000 replies also favored a percentage limit on federal taxes, a 25-year plan to pay off the national debt and a national sales tax.

TITO ON THE SPOT

STALIN DIDN'T LIVE to settle his score with Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia, but there are indications the Russian government will never rest until Tito is deposed and liquidated for his defiance of Moscow. Just prior to his death Stalin is reported to have declared that the "business" in Belgrade must be brought to a conclusion. This information comes from Marcel Wallenstein, American correspondent, writing from Paris, commenting upon Tito's visit to England.

Tito is scared, Wallenstein reports, and went to England seeking help. He fears his country will become another Korea. Even if peace is declared between Russia and the Western powers Tito's position would not be secure. He has committed the unpardonable sin in the eyes of the Soviet government, and cannot be permitted to go unpunished.

Tito has taken many totalitarian steps to make himself secure in his own country, and still has the support of the people. What he fears, then, is liquidation in the usual Russian fashion at the hands of Beria and the Russian secret police. It was Tito's ambition to rule all the satellite countries and be the equal of Stalin in Communist power. Apparently he feels he is to pay for his ambition.

A HAPPY SOLUTION

PLAN ANNOUNCED by producers and retailers to put farm surpluses into the hands of consumers—where they belong—is so sensible, the question inevitably arises why it was not thought of before.

Instead of being piled up in storage warehouses, at great cost to the taxpayers, farm surpluses, under the new plan, would be put on the market immediately. When there is a surplus of any article of food retail stores will advertise the fact and urge their consumers to take advantage of a situation which will help to less the cost of living.

This is in contrast to past efforts of the government to sustain prices of commodities by taking them off the market. The government's experience with potatoes is still widely remembered. The government stored millions of bushels, only to sell them for stock feed at great loss. Millions of pounds of butter are now spoiling in storage which should have been made available to consumers.

The plan is backed by organizations of producers and retailers and should be hailed by the public. It is the law of supply and demand operating in its most logical form and at the same time saving millions of dollars for taxpayers.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It has been the procedure in American history, since after the Administration of George Washington, that the majority party assumes responsibility for the policies of government. General Eisenhower was elected as a Republican and the assumption is that Republican policies will prevail and that all policy-making positions will be held by Republicans.

President Harry Truman so fixed things, while he was President, that many policy-making positions were folded into the Civil Service, which means that although Eisenhower is actually President, he is not in command of the Administration. It is estimated that about 1,500 opponents of his party, his policies and his Administration hold key positions of government in which they can delay, if not stymie, the reforms that are essential to his success in office.

The change in these positions should have been made immediately, but were delayed over a fear of being accused of reintroducing the spoils system. This is nonsense because what is actually involved is the efficient administration of government. The appointment of the Rockefeller Committee has served only to delay changes in personnel along lines that are customary and practical.

In the State Department the situation is particularly bad because the Marshal-Acheson elements there are long entrenched. They have a vested interest in protecting the reputations of Roosevelt, Truman, Marshall and Acheson. What it amounts to is that they continue to pursue the policy of covering up tragic blunders so that the American people will not know what was done in their name. The Republican Party pledges itself at its national convention to eliminate these elements from government.

When John Foster Dulles was appointed Secretary of State, he gave every indication that he would clean up the State Department. He even cooperated with the McCarthy Committee. He appointed Scott McLeod as the Security Officer. He appointed an advisory committee of emeritus foreign service officers, Hugh Gibson, Norman Armour and Joseph C. Grew, to advise on appointees to foreign service posts. No better men could have been chosen, but from their purview were taken such posts as Moscow, Paris, Rome and London.

I am reliably informed that this committee did not pass on the appointment of Charles E. Bohlen to Moscow. The controversy in the Senate on this subject between Senator McCarthy and Senator Knowland did not include, as a statement of fact, that this committee endorsed Bohlen for the Moscow post, nor was the letter which Senator Knowland showed ever put in the record. My own investigations show that Bohlen was never recommended by this committee for the Moscow post and it was not asked to.

The reasons for the objections to Bohlen have not truthfully been made public. Everybody skirts the subject with fanciful language. Dulles's defense that Bohlen would have nothing to do with policy was, of itself, condemnatory. The implication must be that were it a policy position, he would not have been appointed. The only other attempt at defense was that what was in the FBI file is not substantiated by evidence.

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE

CAROL waited a few minutes. Conversation was difficult.

"Julie, I—I think I dropped a brooch on Sunday in the garage. I'd like to go and look," Carol murmured.

Julie gave her a mocking little smile. "Of course, go and look for it—in the garage," she said.

Derek's face was set in even more disapproving lines, but he said nothing.

Well, she couldn't help what they thought. She went quickly. Jason wasn't in the garage; she climbed the staircase to his apartment above and knocked on the door. He came and opened it.

"Hello, Carol... Come back to have another swack at my face? Go ahead; it's yours." His voice was grim. "If I'd guessed you were so averse to being kissed, I shouldn't have kissed you," he added bluntly.

Her small face colored.

"I needed... I was so averse to being kissed." She couldn't keep that back.

He looked down at her without smiling. "Julie's a good kid. Come along in."

The sitting room was attractively furnished in Julie's decorative scheme, red and white. Much more comfortably and charmingly furnished than you would have expected a chauffeur's quarters to be. Julie must have put a lot of time and trouble into doing up this apartment before Jason had come, and again Carol knew she was sickeningly jealous.

"You wanted to say something, Carol?" he asked quietly.

"Don't ask him in town," she said.

She heard him draw in a sharp breath. "You don't say? You've talked to him? Did you tell him where Thelma Felton is?" The questions were shot at her.

"No, but he'll probably find out from Derek." She told him about Wainwright's proposal to buy Felton's and Don's eagerness to get the papers signed quickly. While he listened, the muscles of his face tightened, but he made no comment. Even after she had finished, his remark was surprisingly mild.

"I always thought Wainwright's was after Felton's. They'd absorb it like the big, cheap octopus that they are."

"I know. I hate the idea, Jason. If Wainwright's bought out Felton's, I'd never go back."

"I thought you weren't going back, anyhow." His voice had sharpened. "You and Derek fixed everything up?" he went on in the pause.

"Not everything yet." That was her pride speaking.

"But you are going to marry him?" He was standing quite close to her, looking down into her face. He seemed for the moment to have forgotten the important thing, about Wainwright's buying out Felton's.

The long pause was doing something to her, making her feel weak at the knees and her head was spinning with absurd impossible thoughts. She said quickly:

"That has nothing to do with"

Try, Stop Me

Ersine Caldwell tells of a young backwoodsman who sought a post as local schoolmaster. The county examiner said, "Let's see how much you know 'bout geography, Clem. Would you say the earth was flat or round?" "Don't make much difference to me, Com m i s h," drawled the applicant. "I'm willin' to teach either."

A guide, showing a group of yokels through the Naval Observatory, pointed to a clock and intoned, "Think of it, folks: this clock is the one from which the whole country takes its time." An elderly member of the group surreptitiously consulted a battered old watch of his own, then whispered to his wife: "Durn fine clock, but—it's five minutes slow."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON, March 30—Patronage pressure from Capitol Hill lies behind President Eisenhower's plan to remove many federal employees from the civil service protection given them during 20 years of Democratic rule in Washington.

Although it is not generally realized, there is a grim backstage struggle on now between the congressional and gubernatorial factions for political supremacy. It is a form of rivalry which has always existed, but it is especially acute at the moment. It is a sort of Taft versus Dewey contest.

Wilson, Coolidge, Hoover and Roosevelt were elevated to the White House by gubernatorial outsiders. Only McKinley, Taft and Harding, in modern politics, were congressional creations.

GOVERNORS' MAN—Eisenhower is definitely a governors' man. They first entered him in the 1952 race against the Taft group on Capitol Hill, and they sparked his campaign from start to finish. They have been rewarded amply in his appointments.

ments and in his states rights stand on oil tidelands, power developments and in his states rights stand on oil tidelands, power development, taxation, etc.

Now, with Republicans at the eastern end of Pennsylvania Avenue insist that they be paid off for past and prospective favors to the White House—and they control the legislative field, not the governors — by placing back-home friends and patrons in juicy jobs here and around the country.

FACTOR—The fact that Eisenhower entered the White House as a gubernatorial rather than a congressional protégé is an extremely important factor in present-day politics and government. It explains a lot about his viewpoint on federal-state relationships. Ike is a states-righter for political as well as philosophical reasons.

Ike's candidacy was kicked off by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey shortly after the latter's 1948 defeat. It was helped along by ex-Gov. Duff of Pennsylvania, now a senator, by Gov. Fine of the same state, by Gov. Driscoll of New Jersey, by ex-Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire, by Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, and by numerous other state executives, including Dixie Democrats. Taft of course, was the congressional entry.

Meeting in Houston on the eve of the Republican national convention, GOP members of the Governors' Conference issued a pro-Eisenhower proclamation. The election eve telecast of Republican governors, in which each urged Eisenhower's election for regional considerations, was an effective campaign maneuver. Ike thinks it won him several million votes and about 40 electoral ballots.

Andahl as assistant secretary and ex-Gov. Leslie Hunt as a power consultant. Dewey and Driscoll are slated for important posts when their terms at Albany and Trenton expire.

Most of these White House advisers are able men, but they are new to the Washington scene. Dewey's picks, for instance—Secretary Dulles and Attorney General Brownell—have made several big boners. So has Sherman Adams.

Ike needs the assistance and advice of such Capitol Hill veterans as Taft, Knowland, Ferguson on the Senate side, and of Speaker Martin, Majority Leader Halleck and Rules Committee Chairman Allen in the House. They can make or break his administration.

All are well disposed toward their first president in 20 years. But when he releases several thousand good-paying jobs from civil service, Ike will win them completely if he forgets his gubernatorial pals for awhile, and caters to congressional sensibilities.

what I came to talk to you about. Can't you do something to stop Mrs. Felton from signing those papers?"

"I want a little more time, Carol," he said finally. "Two days at least. But if Haskin finds out where she is—" He broke off and shrugged. "And how can I stop him?"

"I might be able to," she said slowly.

Conversation seemed to have died between Derek and Julie by the time she got back. Julie looked white and exhausted, Derek was standing out on the small balcony smoking. Neither of them bothered to ask her if she'd found the brooch she hadn't lost.

Derek remained silent as they drove away in his car. Carol knew her absence had upset him, but she didn't feel she could explain. The car twisted along the winding road, past small beaches greying with the twilight, past houses dappled with sunset and with lights in the windows.

"That Felton character certainly seems able to get the women," Derek said at last explosively. "Thelma was right about him. Did you see him kiss Julie? And why did you go rushing off to the garage?"

"I wanted to tell him that Mr. Haskin had arrived."

"What's that to him? He's no longer with Felton's."

"No—but I thought he'd be interested. It wasn't just an excuse, Derek." Her voice rose angrily.

"It wasn't?" He glanced towards her, his expression softening.

"No. There's something Mr. Haskin told me about Felton's. I thought he should know. They—Mrs. Felton and he—are planning to sell out to Wainwright's."

He looked genuinely shocked. "To Wainwright's? But they'd destroy everything Felton's has always stood for... Thelma told me nothing of this in New York."

"I don't suppose she's exactly proud of the deal," Carol said bitterly.

They drove up before a pleasant-looking roadhouse called Indian River Inn. They ate fried jumbo shrimps and chip potatoes served in a basket and listened to a man playing on the piano.

"What day are we going up to Vero Beach?" he asked finally.

"Couldn't we make it Sunday? I don't want to miss a day at the store. I'm just getting used to things."

"I'll try and stall her off until Sunday. It won't be easy." He grimaced faintly.

"Can't you say you'll be busy until then?"

"I can say that. Maybe in the meantime she'll occupy herself with Haskin."

She leaned across the table and said earnestly, "Don't tell Mr. Haskin where Mrs. Felton is—not just yet. I—I wish you wouldn't."

The look of angry suspicion returned to his grey eyes.

"Are those orders from Jason Felton?" he asked sharply.

Brave Bulls Lose In Test With Texans

JUAREZ, Mexico (U)—Seldom has the historic old Plaza de Toros seen anything like it: The bulls were brave, the matadors likewise, and the fans even more so. Together they staged quite a ball.

And they raised about 15,000 pesos ($1,800) to buy windows for the Chapel of the Little Jesus, a small adobe chapel on the outskirts of this old border city.

The bulls were the usual ferocious, range-bred animals used in Juarez' colorful bullfights. They pawed the ground, bellowed and charged in the best tradition.

But the five matadors from El Paso, Tex., were strictly novices. At times it appeared the bulls would be the victors, but with a few bumps, the amateurs made out all right.

Panchito Reyes, cashier in a department store and most experienced of the bullfighters, opened the show. He killed his bull and won an ear—the mark of a good fight—but not before he was tossed into the fence surrounding the ring.

Here's how his mates made out: Al Darnell, magician: Magic wouldn't work and he was sent to the showers after trying for half an hour to kill his bull. Substitute

Aber, Hoskins May Aid Tribe

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (U)—Maybe Al Aber and Dave Hoskins are the relief pitchers wanted by Al Lopez, the Cleveland Indians manager.

Lopez had three 20-game winners last season in Mike Garcia, Bob Lemon and Early Wynn but he had lots of trouble finding good firemen to take over when things got out of hand.

Hoskins, a righthander up from Dallas, gave up only two hits and one earned run Sunday in five innings against the New York Giants. And Aber, just out of the Army, did not allow a single tally in his four innings.

The other Giant runs in Cleveland's 15-3 victory resulted from outfield errors.

Four of the five starters on the Notre Dame basketball team and coach Johnny Jordan hail from Chicago.

Charles Scanlon polished off the animal after two attempts.

Enriquez Arriola, clothing factory mechanic: Killed his bull with only minor trouble.

Richard Evans, Negro veteran of the Navy: Got bounced about but made his kill.

Nashville Kid May Get Job With Dodgers

SARASOTA, Fla. (U)—The kid who chased Jackie Robinson off second base is a 24-year-old Negro from Nashville by the name of James (Junior) Gilliam, fresh from the Montreal farm.

In fact, Gilliam still is on the Montreal roster, pending final action by the Brooklyn brass. They want to be sure before they make their move.

Manager Charley Dressen is almost as sure as you can be at this stage of a spring training season.

"If he continues as he has up to now, he's got to play second base," said Dressen. "Hitting is the only question. If he can hit .260, he can help us. He looks like a fine leadoff man."

Robinson, moved out of his regular job by Gilliam, has this to say about the newcomer:

"He can get balls that I can't touch any more. If he hits .275, I think the club will be strongest with him at second base. He is fast. He has a good arm. The only question to me is the double play. He isn't a polished double play man yet."

Gilliam, a switch hitter, is getting his big chance after only two years of organized ball—both at Montreal. Last year he hit .301 and was named the most valuable player in the International League. He isn't exactly a novice at the game, having played in the Negro leagues since 1945, when he was only 16.

Sokolosky's These Days

The Bohlen Case is only important because it achieved an open breach in the Republican Party. The unanimous vote in the committee did not reflect a unanimous opinion. The Republicans felt that they preferred not to embarrass the President on this issue.

The Constitution, however, provides that the Senate advise and consent to such appointments. The risk of an open break is politically great, because in 1954, the Republicans can lose control of the Senate. Some of them already feel that it would be preferable if the Democrats were in the majority there, as they feel the Democrats actually are in control.

Unless during the next three months the Republicans find a way to assume management of the Administration and particularly to rid the State Department of Acheson influences, they will not be in charge of the Administration.

Bohlen is no better or worse than many others in the State Department. He has the advantage of knowing Russian and has had a wide experience as the interpreter for Roosevelt and Truman. The actual target is the Acheson gang, and that target is likely to remain because the Republicans made an issue of Acheson while he was in office.

They dare not evade this issue politically. Many of them feel that the continuance of Acheson men in office is a repudiation of their pledges.

London Burglar Gets U.S. Jewels

LONDON (U)—Hollywood actress Yvonne de Carlo says a burglar took a $10,000 emerald necklace, other jewels and travelers checks from her apartment yesterday afternoon.

She told police she returned to her third-floor flat after a brief absence and found her jewel case missing from her dressing table. Nothing else was disturbed and there was no indication how the

Stock Car Races Begin April 12 In Washington

Pickaway County stock-car racing fans will have their first glimpse of their favorite sport on April 12 in Washington, C. H.

And they have something special to look forward to this season at the Circleville oval in Pickaway Fairgrounds.

This year, Circle Enterprises, local organization of the Four City Racing Club, will stage races every Wednesday night under the lights in the fairgrounds.

Dock Holder, president of the group, said the Pickaway County Agricultural Society is to install lights at the track for after-dark programs this year. The local racing programs are expected to begin about May 6.

MEANWHILE, first of the Four City club's programs will be the April 12 event in Washington, C. H. and for the next three Sundays. The opener will have six events and a feature race.

After the four Sunday programs, the Washington layout will begin with a series of evening races on Friday nights. New construction for a track also is underway in Chillicothe to provide more events for the local fans.

Other officers of the Circle racing organization are Charles Conliver, vice-president; and Russell Spangler Jr., secretary-treasurer. Forrest Storts is prexy for the Four City group.

Father Admits Mercy Slaying

CLIFTON, N. J. (U)—A tavern and hotel owner has admitted killing his 5-year-old son because he could "not stand to see him suffer any longer" from cerebral palsy.

Police arrested the father, Albert J. Sell, 44, when they found him in a parked car at a deserted spot near a road yesterday. The body of the black-haired, brown-eyed boy was in the back.

"I shot my boy. He's in the back seat there. I knew the police would find me," Sell was quoted as saying to the officers. Sell will be arraigned today on a murder charge.

Italian Socialists Urge Middle Road

MILAN, Italy (U)—The Independent Italian Socialist party, which cares little for America and even less for Soviet Russia, ended a two-day conference here last night with resolutions urging Italy to find a "middle way" between Moscow and Washington.

Most of the 600 delegates attending were rebels from the big left-traveling Italian Socialist party, which since the war has linked itself with communism.

Another Dramatic Chapter Waiting For County Courthouse

Court's History Began In Town Of Jefferson

First Common Pleas Term July 23, 1810, In Nevill Home

One hundred and forty-three years of Pickaway County court history will turn to another dramatic chapter next Monday with opening of the Ruff murder trial here—only one week short of the anniversary of the county's first formal court session.

Many outstanding cases and a host of distinguished names have moved through the local courtroom scenes since that first session on April 13, 1810. It was a special court of inquiry, held in what was then the town of Jefferson, near Circleville.

The story is told in the Wilson Brothers History of Franklin and Pickaway County as follows:

Present were the Honorable William Seymour, Jacob Shoemaker, Thomas Barr, associate judges.

JAMES RENNICK, sheriff, having opened court, it was ordered that he bring in . . . John Bennis . . . charged with murdering Reuben Cherry, with malice aforethought. The prisoner was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. He was returned to prison and the court adjourned.

The case, continued May 1, resulted in the prisoner being admitted to bail . . . fixed at $1,000 for his appearance at the ensuing first term of the court of common pleas.

The first Common Pleas court term for Pickaway County convened July 23 at the house of Henry Nevill in Jefferson. Judges were the Honorable John Thompson, president, and William Seymour, Thomas Barr and Jacob Shoemaker, associates.

Names of members of the first grand jury were:

Edward William, West Miller, Charles Cade, George Atter, Isaac Williams, John Timmons, William Maruis, James Martin, Daniel Shelby, John Burgit, Thomas Rennie, Ezekiel Morris, William Miller, Hugh Creighton, William Rennie and John Robinson. William Miller, Creighton and Robinson failed to appear for duty and Benjamin Kepner and Elisha Litter were chosen to replace them.

The case of the State of Ohio against Bennis opened July 24, 1810. Two days later, the jurors returned a verdict of manslaughter, whereupon the court ordered that the prisoner be confined for eight days and fined $200 and costs.

"AT THIS TIME," according to an account in the press, "rules for the government of the court and officers were established. Some of them are worthy of mention.

"One was that the attorneys were to be orderly, and treat each other with respect at the bar . . . to make no noise or contradict no gentleman addressing the court or jury, unless first moving the court to interfere, and if the gentleman thus

Cpl. Paul Burkitt Returning Home

Cpl. Paul K. Burkitt, whose wife, Beverly, lives on Mount Sterling Route 2, is returning to the U. S. from Korea under the Army's rotation program.

He served in the 25th Infantry Division, now the senior American division on the peninsula. It landed in July, 1950, shortly after the Communists attacked the Republic of South Korea.

Cpl. Burkitt, a former communications chief in the 27th Infantry Regiment's Company K, entered the Army in October, 1951, and arrived in Korea last April.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Burkitt, also of near Mount Sterling, he has been awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge, UN Service Ribbon and the Korean Service Ribbon.

Ike Is Asked To Give Report

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), saying the U. S. seems to have "a distinct military deficit" as compared with Russia, has urged President Eisenhower to give the nation a full report on comparative strength of the two nations.

He made public yesterday a letter to the President which said in part:

"May I . . . convey a respectful suggestion that you yourself . . . come before the Congress and present an inventory of the world situation, the growing strength of the potential enemy and the broad military and atomic requirements we ourselves have no choice except to fulfill."

There was no immediate comment from the White House.

'Moon Madness' May Rouse Killer

LONDON (AP)—Urgent new warnings went out today to all Britain's police that London's sex-crazed strangler may strike again at tonight's full moon. Already investigators had found the remains of six victims—all women—and what may be the shattered skull of a seventh.

Police believe the murders show a pattern of moon madness that could bring another slaying tonight.

They pursued a theory that the killer at the time of the full moon goes berserk, entices the women into some secluded place, strangles them and assaults them sexually.

contradicted talks back, he shall, at the discretion of the court, suffer a suspension. . . .

"Another that the prosecuting attorney shall keep the secrets of the grand jury and his own . . . the clerk or deputy never leave the court without permission . . . the sheriff was to suffer no one to smoke within the bar . . . to attend the court at their lodgings and walk before them to the courthouse every morning.

"The fees of county officers at this time were:

"The prosecuting attorney, $160 per annum; clerk, $60; sheriff, $60."

Ohio Assembly To Cost More In Taxation

Legislators Already Line Up Bills For A $75 Million Touch

COLUMBUS (AP)—The 100th Ohio General Assembly is going to cost Buckeye taxpayers plenty.

Members have introduced about three dozen measures to tap them for an extra 75 million dollars in higher taxes, fees and charges.

Many of the proposals, possibly 50 to 60 million dollars worth, have good prospects of becoming law. You can hear lots of talk around the legislative halls against heavier taxpayer burdens, but legislation to lighten the load is conspicuously absent.

Motorists can look forward to paying an extra 23 millions a year in gasoline taxes. Legislators expect to approve a cent-a-gallon boost in the four-cent gasoline tax to get money for new highways.

They also appear determined to get another 20 millions or so from operators of heavy trucks for the same purpose. Taxpayers ultimately will foot the bill in higher freight charges.

Slated for quick final approval is a three million dollar boost in taxes on pari-mutuel race track betting.

Majority Republicans insist they won't approve other tax increases and Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche has challenged them to stay within his record high 831 million dollar budget to run the state for the next two years.

But other bills would increase various license fees and service charges. They look trivial alone; lumped together they look costly.

Other bills propose increases in the sales tax, personal tax on industrial equipment and car license fees. Labor wants unemployment and workmen's compensation benefits boosted. Old age pensioners may get 10 millions more. State contributions for employee retirement is up some three millions.

Schools seek about 30 millions more than they got last year. GOP legislators have promised them about 10 millions and hope to "squeeze" the money out of the budget.

Local governments insist on an extra 10 millions from the 175 million dollar annual sales tax take, but their prospects appear dim.

Some legislators want the state monopoly to raise whiskey prices. That could increase Ohioans' liquor bill some 45 millions annually.

Action to force improved telephone service in rural areas appears likely. Legislators also are studying a change in the formula used to set gas, electric and telephone rates. Some lawmakers claim the changes would cut consumers' utility bills, but company spokesmen dispute it. Improvements at various state institutions costing 100 million dollars. They seek a similar amount for various services. Most of them look doomed.

More than a dozen legislators proposed studies and investigations that would cost a million dollars. They want to probe Communists, schools, public utilities, prisons and their activities, Lake Erie shore erosion, Cleveland district income tax administration and the state's own tax system.

The House balked at pay increases for state department heads but only because a late change in the bill would cut some higher-paid key employees back to the level of their bosses. Another vote on the bill is due.

Resolutions were offered to ask Congress for a limit on income taxes, cuts through removal of the federal government from activities competing with private business and elimination of the tax on women's handbags.

A committee already has killed the handbag tax proposal, indicating the fate of the others.

But Ohioans can take some solace in their state's financial position. Lausche described it as sound. A 50 million dollar surplus is likely, although it is all but half spent by pending or approved legislation.

Yet the cost of state government isn't expected to exceed $57 a

'Meanest Man' Law Is Signed

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey has signed legislation aimed at "the meanest man in the world."

Dewey said the meanest man was "one who would take away from war veterans who have lost arms or legs, their only sport."

"The measure prohibits night fishing in a stretch of creek where patients of veterans hospitals in Buffalo and Batavia cast their lines.

Most sportsmen voluntarily refrain from fishing there, but a few continue to fish at night.

Autos To Receive New Buffeting

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Already battered by one atomic blast, 50 automobiles are going to be hit by further detonations on the Nevada Proving Grounds.

Harold L. Goodwin, civil defense atomic test director, said the new exposure of the cars will be to supplement information obtained in the March 17 shot.

Exposure to an atomic pounding under different conditions will give a better basis for evaluating the degree of protection afforded passengers by automobiles, he explained.

person during the next biennium. The national average is $64.68. Ohio ranked 35th among the states in that respect. Twenty-seven states operated in the red last year.

Scalp Replaced

CLEVELAND (AP)—James Trendera, 16, had his scalp back today, thanks to the Cleveland police. A doctor, treating the youth after an automobile accident, found missing a piece of flesh and hair about three inches in diameter. Police found the piece and 45 minutes after the accident the scalp was sewed together again.
